

Support for Muslims with Disabilities

Rabia Khedr is a dedicated grass-roots community leader and disability rights advocate.

She is a founder of the Canadian Association of Muslims with Disabilities. CAM-D holds a vision of a global village that includes full access. Rabia's experience—two of her brothers have intellectual disabilities--and her own experience of blindness drive her work to address areas where racial, gender, faith, cultural and disability experiences intersect.

To see her website, visit: <http://www.diversityworx.com/>

The Canadian Association of Muslims with Disabilities (CAM-D) is a relatively new organization. To see their website, visit: <http://www.camd.ca/>

If you know of any other Muslim organizations engaged in advocacy for people with intellectual disabilities or helpful resources, please share them on our Facebook page.*

